

Looking for Russian Visas in the USA? If so check out below where to apply.

---

As an individual, you can have your visa processed at any consulate of the Russian Embassy in the United States (which can be found in Washington, New York, San Francisco, Houston, and Seattle) as well as at the Russian Visa Center in USA, an independent business that is subcontracted by the Russian Embassy in the USA which also has delegations in these same cities.

If you're applying for a visa to Russia from the USA, you can visit a consulate of the Russian Federation depending on which state you live in. Below you can find a list of 5 websites of Embassies of the Russian Federation in the US:

https://rusconhouston.mid.ru/en\_US/

https://sanfrancisco.mid.ru/en\_US/

https://newyork.mid.ru/en\_GB/web/newyork\_en

<https://washington.mid.ru/en/>

https://seattle.mid.ru/en\_US/web/seattle-en

Instead, if you are looking for Russia Visa Centers check out the website below. For your information, all Russian visa applications in the US are now handled by visa centers managed by Invisa Logistic Services.

<http://www.ils-usa.com/>

Remember, there are no extra documents required for US citizens to apply for a Russian Travel Visa. In fact, the only document you need to submit - apart from your passport, visa support documents, and completed application form - is a cover letter with details of your itinerary (including dates of entry and departure, and the Russian cities, you plan to visit).

Lastly, you might be happy to know that since 2013 all US travelers to Russia are eligible to apply for a three-year multi-entry visa no matter what the purpose of their trip. This visa, which costs the same as a regular tourist visa, allows you to stay in the Russian Federation for up to six months at a time over a 36-month period. In other words, if you wish to stay long-term in Russia, all you will need to do is exit and re-enter the country once every six months.